

Harrods

Where Cruelty is in Fashion

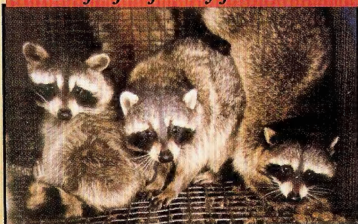

If you are thinking about buying anything from Harrods, please consider the following facts

- * Harrods is the only department store in the UK which continues to sell real fur. All the hundreds of other department stores have fur-free policies.
- * Fur farming and the leghold trap are both illegal in the UK on grounds of animal cruelty, all the fur sold in Harrods is imported.
- * Harrods sells fur from a wide variety of animals, both farmed and trapped, including chinchillas, foxes, raccoons, wolves, minks, muskrats, squirrels, rabbits, beavers and coyotes.
- * On fur factory farms, many thousands of wild animals are forced to spend their entire lives crammed into wire mesh cages. These barbaric conditions lead to severe physical injuries and psychological damage.
- * In leghold traps, the animal can spend hours or even days in agony before the trapper returns, some will bite off their own limbs in a desperate effort to escape.

There is something you can do to stop it...

To supply fur for Harrods, wild animals such as foxes (above) and raccoons (below) are crammed into wire mesh cages for their whole lives on horrific fur factory farms

The terrible conditions on fur farms leads to serious injuries and deformities, especially of the legs and feet due to the mesh cages.

Animals on fur farms suffer mental damage, leading to harmful behaviour such as cage-biting, endless pacing, self mutilation and even cannibalism.

What You Can Do

CONTACT QATAR!

Harrods is now owned by Qatar Holding, a company set up by the Government and the Royal Family of Qatar. The chairman of Qatar Holding, and in effect the owner of Harrods, is the Prime Minister of Qatar and the brother of the Emir (King).

Ask the Qatar Government to stop selling fur at Harrods

Write to: The Prime Minister.

Don't buy from Harrods until they stop selling fur, and encourage others to do the same. There is no excuse for Harrods. The production of fur is illegal in the UK, and every other department store in the UK has a fur-free policy.

Contact Harrods, Explain the horrors of the fur trade, and politely ask them to stop the sale of all real fur.

For more details about how you can help to end the cruel fur trade, contact us, fill in the slip, or visit the website.
